Question of the Month

Last month, the Cook County Farm Bureau Foundation kicked off its 2023 fundraising raffle to benefit agricultural literacy and education in Cook County. What is the price of a raffle ticket?

Call the Farm Bureau at 708-354-3276, fax your answer to 708-579-6056, or email to fbcooperator@gmail.com to enter the drawing for a $25 gas card. (Please include name, FB number, and phone number)

February Winner: Roy Cheskie

Question: Illinois Farm Families recently helped kick off the “We are the 96” campaign designating 2023 as the “Year of the Farmer”. What does the number “96” represent?

Answer: 96 is the % of farms in Illinois that are family-based farms

AG IN THE CLASSROOM

Ag in the Classroom Presenter Barbara Bhojraj presented to 22 fourth grade students at Peck Elementary School in Chicago. During the “Intro to Illinois Ag” presentation, students learned how agriculture provides food, fiber, and energy, reviewed the food supply chain, and learned examples of STEM in agriculture, such as robotics, drones, and GPS systems. More info about our AITC presentations can be found at <https://bit.ly/3YCH3Wr>. For more Ag Literacy news go to page 6.

Soil Testing Kits Available THIS SPRING

Cook County Farm Bureau offers both members and non-members an opportunity to test their garden or lawn soil by purchasing a soil testing kit. Soil, in its natural state, is rarely fertile enough for the best growth of plants. Usually, it is necessary to supplement the earth's store of plant nutrients before we can obtain the most vigorous lawn, the most abundant and brilliant flowers, the most aesthetically satisfying trees/shrubs, and the greatest yield of tasty and nutritious vegetables or crops. Test your soil pH, potassium, phosphorous, and other key elements to begin the soil improvement process.

Complete kit guidelines and instructions, as well as mailing information, included in the test kit. Members will receive test results and basic recommendations typically within two weeks, with more extensive test interpretation provided by the partnering volunteer Master Gardener Unit with the University of IL Extension South Suburban Horticulture Team.

Farm Bureau Soil Test Kit discounted member pricing:

1 sample Soil Test Kit: $28 | 2 sample kit: $36 | 3 sample kit: $55
1 sample Soil & Lead Test Kit: $55 | 1 sample Lead Only Test Kit: $46

Non-member pricing also available and pricing subject to change. Soil Kits are available for purchase at the Cook County Farm Bureau by calling 708-354-3276, using a Visa, MasterCard, or Discover at no additional charge, or stop by the office to purchase, Mon-Fri 8:00 am - 4:30 pm.

Who We Are

Cook County Farm Bureau is made up of many members including farmers, landowners, foodies, greenhouse operators, specialty growers, food consumers and customers of the Farm Bureau's affiliated companies (Country Financial, Conserv FS, IAA Credit Union, etc).

We bring together many members with diverse backgrounds and food interests in an effort to support the success of local farmers and to keep agriculture present and strong in Cook County.

This Co-Operator publication for members is designed to share more about how Cook County Farm Bureau is working for local farmers and agriculture and to help our members know more about farming, food, fiber and fuel that comes from farming.

As an added value, we are able to provide great membership deals, savings, discounts, benefits, programming and activities that reflect our agricultural heritage and modern expectations.

Please enjoy reading and thank you for your support of area agriculture and your membership!

WHISKEY ACRES

AG ADVENTURES FOR FAMILIES WINNER: ROSELYN A. KING

Roselyn A. King (age 88) was drawn as the winner of the special group of members (25 members were eligible) who entered the Ag Adventures for Families word search every month in 2022. Her prize was a basket packed with agricultural related items with ties to Illinois, the Chicagoland area and Cook County Farm Bureau. Roselyn lives in Des Plaines and has been a member since 2009. Farm Bureau manager, Bob Rohrer, stopped by her place to drop off the basket and had a great conversation.

She's a widow, lives with her daughter and has 4 grandkids youngest is 23yrs old, no little ones in the house. She has donated to the CCFB Foundation, she's a coffee drinker, loves to read and garden when she's able to, loves animals; and shares a cat with her daughter. Originally from the Rochelle area, she never lived on the farm but has great memories of the rural areas. She was educated in one room schoolhouse.

Gratitude Journal

Each month, there are people that go out of their way to lend a hand to help with our cause in many ways, both big and small. We appreciate it greatly!

The Cook County Farm Bureau thanks...

- Longtime member Michael O'Brien for coming into the office once a month to respond to the questions of the month and to share his smile and good nature!
- Our friends at Whiskey Acres in DeKalb for providing a great tour and fun of their facility for board members and spouses.
- Steve Stasys from the CME Group for presenting How Futures and Options Help Manage Price Risk Webinar to our farming members.
- Member Roselyn King for allowing manager Bob Rohrer to stop in and present a gift basket to her for completing every Ag Adventures word search during the year 2022. (Thank you to the other 30 members who also completed the word search every time in 2022 as well!)
- Board members Jim Gutzmer, Jim Bloomstrand, Todd Price, Gerry Kopping, Mark Yunker, Roger Freeman and Pat Horcher for recently preparing for and passing the tests to complete the Certified Director Training program offered by the Illinois Farm Bureau in their quest to better serve members as leaders. They joined certified directors Janet McCabe and Ruth Zeldenrust. The program provides knowledge and professional skills to help build stronger agricultural organizations. Congratulations!
- Board member Jim Gutzmer and staff member Bona Heinsohn for representing the Cook County Farm Bureau at the recent Governmental Affairs Leadership Conference and Legislative Reception in Springfield.
- The great group of volunteers that attended in person and virtually the February 8 Team meetings for Ag Literacy, Commodity/Marketing, Governmental Affairs, Member Relations, Public Relations, and Young Leaders! Your thoughts, input, suggestions and creative ideas enhance the Cook County Farm Bureau.

“What’s Hot in 2023?”

The Illinois Farm Families coalition has named 2023 “The Year of the Farmer”. To help promote it, the coalition kicked off a campaign called “We are the 96” during the Super Bowl on February 12.

Everyone knows you have to be hot or famous to be a part of the Super Bowl, right? Therefore...

Farmers are HOT!

Illinois Farm Families provides more details at Wearethe96.org.

What does that mean “We are the 96”? According to the United States Department of Agriculture, 96% of farming operations in Illinois are family-based. This is a powerful message to share: 96% of Illinois farms are still owned and operated by families, just like yours.

My family is part of that 96%. Dad and Mom farmed with my uncle and aunt for many years. My siblings and I provided what I define as “unskilled” labor to support the farm operations. While some of us are a bit quirky, we are a farm family. We are the 96.

When my father and mother retired from farming, Dad chose to lease the farm to two brothers...another family farm. The lease is a crop share lease which means Dad remains an active farmer from the management side. That’s two family farms that are the 96. And for more “hot” farm connections...

Food is HOT (and sometimes not)!

Each year, I make a point of checking out the National Restaurant Association’s “What’s Hot” Culinary Forecast. I like to know about the foods and food trends that I probably won’t eat in the coming year.

In January, I checked out the 10 hot food trends that made the 2023 list – and a shocker – I’m all about the top four! Look at me, I’m a trendsetter!

- #1: Experiences/local culture and community (my wife says every meal shared with me is a local experience)
- #2 Fried chicken sandwiches and chicken sandwiches (Hey, I plan on eating a lot of chicken sandwiches this year...maybe I can boost it to the number one position?)

#3: The charcuterie board (I call that my late-night, after a board meeting snack... “cheese, summer sausage, and crackers on a paper plate”)

#4: Comfort fare (I eat that every day in my expandable, comfy jeans!)

In the ‘not hot category’, there were some “what’s hot” items on the list that I’m going to leave off my list in 2023...

- Flat bread sandwiches/ healthier wraps
- Sriracha variations
- Globally inspired salads
- Zero waste/sustainability/ upscaled foods

Perhaps next year I will give them a try.

From the “cooling down” foods from last year’s list (do we call them fads?), there is not much that I will miss...

- pickle pizza (who even thought to try that?)
- breakfast salads (add fried eggs, hash browns, and bacon and you got something going)
- fruit flavored coffee (I would love to see that offered at a small-town diner)
- pickled French fries (why do they have to go ruin the fried deliciousness?)

- ranch water (I picture a horse trough)
- up-scaled pigs-in-a-blanket (hmm - upscale pigs?)
- Crudit  platters (a veggie tray... I had to look that one up)

And, as the National Restaurant Association attempts to figure out what will be popular in 2024, I should let them know I plan on eating a lot of cheeseburgers!

However, I do not plan on eating a lot of mealworm cheeseburgers in 2024. Even if...

Insect protein is HOT?

The headline, “Beetleburgers could soon reach mass production – helping to feed the world” leapt off the page at me. Beetle larva, better known as mealworms, is being used to act as a meat alternative to alleviate hunger worldwide. Mealworms also could be used as alternatives to sausages or chicken nuggets!

According to the article, a French bio company, Ynsect, is planning a global network of insect farms including nurseries and slaughterhouses to make this vision a reality. These mealworms can be turned into protein powders, burgers, shakes, cereal bars, and even cooking oils.

Imagine the potential: an entire bug growing facility, slaughterhouse, processing, and restaurant all under one roof. A true farm to table story!

Have a recipes using, fresh, local ingredients that your wanting to share, please submit by: Email: membershipdebbie@cookcfb.org or Mail: CCFB/Recipes 6438 Joliet Rd Countryside, IL 60525. Deadline March 25th!

The Ag Literacy Department finalized development of a mailable soil educational kit for teachers of fourth-eighth grade classrooms.

Jonny Poole aims and rolls a bocce ball during the Young Leaders Team night out as members look on.

The Junior Sheriff educational program with the Ag Literacy Department took place on February 10.

There is always a lot of action and activities going on at the Cook County Farm Bureau. Here are some updates to recent activities and programs.

- The Board of Directors recently supported a concept offered by the Bureau County Farm Bureau for a "Members in the Middle" statewide program designed for farmer members ages 35-50 to keep these individuals involved and connected with the organization following their Young Leader involvement.

- The Board of Directors renewed the organization's membership in the Illinois Farmers Market Association.
- The Board of Directors approved an annual contribution to the Illinois Agricultural Leadership Foundation to support agriculturally related leadership training by the organization.

- The Ag Literacy Department finalized development of a mailable soil educational kit for teachers of fourth-eighth grade classrooms which features lessons, soil related supplies, and hands-on STEM activities thanks to a grant received from Compeer. In connection with the kit, a new AITC Specialty Program for fourth through eighth grade students entitled "What's the Dirt on Illinois Soil?" was developed and is ready for delivery by presenters.

- The Public Relations Book Club has enjoyed reading and discussing the book Rancher, Farmer, Fisherman and is looking forward to the documentary screening by the same name at Wagner Farm in Glenview on March 14 at 6p.m.

- The Young Leaders Team had a Friday night "out" at Pinstripes in Oak Brook playing bocce ball, catching up with one another and enjoying pizza as a group.

- Cook County Farm Bureau leaders were part of the Illinois Farm Bureau Governmental Affairs Conference and legislative reception in Springfield. During the event, Cook County Farm Bureau had an opportunity to connect with area legislators and communicate Cook County Farm Bureau/Illinois Farm Bureau policy.

- The Cook County Farm Bureau Foundation kicked off its 2023 "Raffle for Ag Education" fundraiser with ticket sales with and sponsorships.

- Members and Dependents seeking an agricultural related career submitted scholarship applications for higher education support. The Cook County Farm Bureau Foundation Board is evaluating those applications.

- The Cook County Farm Bureau Public Relations Committee developed plans for the 2023 Food Check out Day with members and Country Financial agencies providing financial support for local food pantries.

- The Commodities/Marketing Team hosted an informational lunch and learn webinar on risk management of commodities for farmer members.

- The Public Relations Team continued its sponsorship of the Facebook "Fact or Fiction" posts for educational purposes and prizes.

- The Ag Literacy Department participated in the Junior Sheriff educational program on Feb. 10 at Catalyst Circle Rock School in Chicago by presenting details to fourth through eighth grade students about agriculture and sports just prior to the big Super Bowl game.

Lanphier re-elected to Chair of the Young Leaders Team

During the February 8, 2023 Young Leaders Team meeting, the group elected leadership for the Team for the upcoming year.

The Young Leaders Team is designed to involve Cook County Farm Bureau members ages 18-35 in the organization and enhance leadership skills amongst the group. They meet four times annually for planning purposes and participate in both fun and educational activities throughout the year.

Blake Lanphier

BLAKE LANPHIER will continue the chairmanship responsibilities after a year as chair. Blake serves as the farm manager of Wagner Farm in Glenview. He has a Bachelor of Science degree in animal sciences from Iowa State University. Blake is a 2020 graduate of the two-year agricultural educational leadership experience through the Illinois Ag Leadership Program. He provides support and program assistance for the Glenview 4-H club which is one of the largest in Cook County. Blake is a Professional Member of the CCFB.

Karina Barrios

KARINA BARRIOS will serve as Vice-Chair of the group. Karina is employed in the food production industry in the Chicago area. She is a past Ag literacy intern through the Cook County Farm Bureau Foundation. Karina has a Bachelor of Science degree in Agricultural and Biological Engineering from the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign. Karina is a professional member of the CCFB.

Doug Yunker

DOUG YUNKER was elected as recorder for the group. Doug is a part of Yunker Farms, a 4th generation family farm in Northeastern Illinois. Yunker Farms grows conventional and organic corn, soybeans, wheat, and hay. Doug has previously worked for an area agricultural company serving area farmers. Doug previously served as Chairman of the Young Leaders Group.

Members interested in participating in the group can contact the Cook County Farm Bureau at 708-354-3276 or email bona@cookcfb.org.

5 Questions

with Ruth Zeldenrust,
CCFB Secretary/Treasurer

What is your favorite responsibility within the Cook County Farm Bureau?

My favorite responsibility is going to Board and Team Meetings. It's an honor and true pleasure to serve with so many dedicated people that care about agriculture and each other. Cook County Farm Bureau is my "home away from home" and the members and staff are my extended family. Each person at the Farm Bureau has their own niche of expertise.

What impresses you about the CCFB staff?

What impresses me about the staff at CCFB and all the way to the Illinois Farm Bureau is that there is only excellence in every task, every day, all the time. Everyone is consistently doing their best – and nothing is done halfway. Cook County Farm Bureau has the best and friendliest staff on the planet.

What is a memory stamped into your mind from your involvement with Cook County Farm Bureau?

I've been with the Farm Bureau since I was in college. Some of my fondest memories have been talking to legislators that come to visit our farm. They are always so interested to know that there are family farms in Cook County. Some of my favorite memories are during spring planting both in the greenhouse and in the field. It's such a great time of coming together. The weather has changed, and everyone is happy, working together, eating meals outside, being tired and dirty, laughing, maybe some yelling, but mostly the teamwork involved in making a family farm run every year. It makes me smile.

What is your favorite food?

Pizza. Pizza. Oh, and more pizza! My standard is sausage/pepperoni, and new favorite is ham and pineapple. Also love taco pizza, veggie pizza, and deep dish. (Only from Chicago, of course.)

When you are not working on farming and Farm Bureau related business, what is something you like to spend time doing?

In my spare time I like beekeeping and going bowhunting for elk with my husband. Probably neither are very relaxing. However, we also love fishing as well.

Heinsohn Renews CAE Certification

Bona Heinsohn

Cook County Farm Bureau® staff member, Bona Heinsohn, successfully renewed her Certified Association Executive® (CAE) credential from the CAE Commission of the American Society of Association Executives®, joining more than 4,700 industry leaders worldwide.

Heinsohn completed over 50 continuing education hours in the areas of leadership, association management, finance, communication, ethics, association law, and governmental affairs. Additionally, four credits were in the area of qualifying leadership, authorship, and teaching activities contributing to the profession of association management.

CAEs are required to renew their certification every three years.

The CAE Program elevates professional standards, enhances individual performance, and designates those who have acquired and have demonstrated the knowledge essential to the practice of association management. The CAE Program is accredited by the National Commission for Certifying Agencies.

HOW FARM BUREAU SERVED YOU IN FEBRUARY

- ▶ Advocated for Farm Bureau and Farm Bureau policies to Cook County elected officials and their staffs.
- ▶ Promoted agriculture and farm facts to the general public through social media.
- ▶ Improved member hearing discounts by offering the new and enhanced Great Hearing Benefits Program.
- ▶ Offered a "How Futures and Options Help Manage Price Risk" webinar to our farming community.

Planting Seeds

By Katrina J.E. Milton, Director of Ag Literacy

Katrina J.E. Milton

Growing up rurally, I loved playing outside. Living in the country, I loved riding my bike up and down the long gravel roads, taking photos of crops growing in the fields, butterflies, and wildflowers (a.k.a. weeds) along the ditches. I spent the days of summer vacation monkeying around on my backyard playground set, swimming in our pool, and playing kickball, baseball, and basketball with my cousins. I looked forward to summer vacation not only for a hiatus from homework, but also because I was able to spend time adventuring outdoors.

How children spend their leisure time in a post-pandemic world in 2023 is much different from how I spent mine. Although I grew up playing video games and loved to read, I didn't have the internet at home or a cell phone until high school, via AOL dial-up and a Motorola flip phone.

According to an article entitled "Why Kids Need to Spend Time in Nature" by The Child Mind Institute, the average American child spends about 4 to 7 minutes a day playing outside and more than 7 hours a day in front of a screen. I fondly remember my time playing outdoors as a child, and it made me sad to learn that statistic.

Last fall, as Ag in the Classroom (AITC) Assistant Jill Drover and I were discussing upcoming programming, we realized that we weren't offering a specialty program in the spring. For fall, we offer "Pumpkin and Apple Fall Facts" and for winter, we offer "Keeping Warm with Agriculture." After brainstorming, we decided upon a program all about soil for the spring to connect to Earth Day, warmer weather, and seed germination.

When looking into which Illinois State Board of Education Common Core Standards our new program would align with, I realized that soil science is only mentioned in passing in earth science standards. Without it being a standard and an objective, that means that students may be missing out on learning about soil at all, at every grade level.

Our new soil program, "What's the Dirt on Illinois' Soil?" is a free in-person presentation for fourth through eighth grades. Topics covered in the presentation include earthworms, Illinois' rich minerals and resources under our feet, ice ages creating Illinois' flat prairies, the Dust Bowl, how plants require nutrients found in soil, how to prevent soil erosion, how to conserve soil, and more.

In conjunction with the program, we are also providing free mailable soil kits to teachers of fourth through eighth grades. All of the materials required for lessons and hands-on STEM activities will be provided in the Ship-a-Kit Soil Kit. The kit includes lesson plans, hands-on activities, and Illinois Ag in the Classroom's Soil Ag Mag, Ag-venture Worksheet, and Ag Reader. The kits will also include a URL link to additional lesson plans that will help educators continue teaching their students about soil. Additional resources, such as a list of ag-accurate books, websites, videos, and related lesson plans, will be provided virtually on CCFB's website.

I recently read an Illinois Ag in the Classroom Jr. Reader that stated that "soil matters because it's matter." Soil isn't just one thing, it's a mixture of many, many things. Soil is made up of 45% mineral particles, 25% air, 25% water, and 5% organic matter. There are millions of species and billions of organisms in soil, including bacteria, algae, microscopic insects, earthworms, beetles, ants, mites, fungi, and more.

My hope with the new program and mailable kits is to spark students' interest in soil, to help them realize the importance of soil conservation, and to foster a love for nature and the outdoors. Topsoil, which is used to plant and grow crops, is a depth of only 5 to 10 inches on average, or less than the length of two $1 bills. Only 1/32 of the earth's surface is available for farming. Every minute of every day, the U.S. loses about an acre of farmland. Over 70% of America's fruit, vegetables, and dairy products are produced on farms near cities that are expanding and developing. Since soil supports 95% of all food production, and soil is a nonrenewable resource, we have to do all that we can to conserve the soil we have and keep it healthy and full of nutrients for future generations.

Astronaut Neil Armstrong's first words upon stepping on the surface of the moon in 1969 were, "That's one small step for man, one giant leap for mankind." I think learning about the surface of the earth – and its soil – is similar: it all starts with a small step.

Junior Sheriff's Program

Middle school students in the Cook County Junior Sheriff's Program work together to solve a matching game, connecting agriculture to sports, at Catalyst Circle Rock School. During the program, the 26 students learned about sod, how sports balls, equipment, and jerseys are made, Clydesdale horses, and the farm-to-table connection of game time snack foods, including popcorn, pretzels, and Cracker Jack.

Soil Kits Now Available

Fourth through eighth grade classrooms can dig into soil science with a Cook County Farm Bureau Foundation's Ship-a-Kit Mailable Soil Kit. All of the materials required for lesson plans and hands-on STEM activities will be provided in the free soil kit. The kits will also include QR code link to additional lesson plans and resources, including ag-accurate books, websites, and videos.

For more information about the soil kits, visit <https://bit.ly/SoilFun>. To request a soil kit, visit <https://bit.ly/SoilShip>.

Presentations Now Available

Teachers of fourth through eighth grade students can bring soil science and agriculture into their classroom with AITC's newest specialty program, "What's the Dirt on Illinois' Soil?" During the free, in-person presentation, students will learn about the soils of Illinois and how nutrient-rich soil makes our state an agricultural powerhouse. Topics covered in the presentation include: earthworms, Illinois' minerals and resources under our feet, ice ages creating Illinois' flat prairies, the Dust Bowl, how plants require nutrients found in soil, how to prevent soil erosion, how to conserve soil, and more. Program lasts approximately 60 minutes.

CAREERS IN AGRICULTURE ARE MORE THAN FARMING!

According to the USDA's Economic Research Service, a total of 19.7 million jobs, or 10.3% of U.S. employment, was related to agriculture in 2020. Farming only made up 13.5% of agricultural employment; food service made up 53.4% and food and beverage stores made up 16.5%.

There are more than one million agriculture-related jobs in Illinois. Ag-related careers include plant science, animal science, natural resources, agricultural business, environmental science, agricultural mechanics, and food science.

Employment in Agriculture, Food, and Related Industries, 2020

Farming: A job with as many boots as hats

Before the first puddles of spring arrived, I would rummage through the supply of hand-me-down rubber boots, searching for the size that our young kids had grown into for the season. The appropriate footwear lined the back hall, ready for water to pond in the driveway.

Today, my teenagers splash less, but the boot dryer has a permanent space near an outlet and the family's boots now take up more space for a household with adult-sized feet. Shoes and boots for "farm" and "good" fill cabinets and cubbies by the back door. Rubber boots – both insulated and not – line part of the garage wall. Shelves display the nicer western boots that our kids wear to school, FFA events and the 4-H fair for showing livestock. Boots for the chicken coop stay in the garage.

Farmers wear as many boots as hats on the farm, symbolic of a wide range of skills worth recognizing in this season that honors National Ag Day on March 21, 2023. In Illinois, families (not corporations) own and operate an overwhelming 96% of farms. Those families pull on boots as agronomists, veterinarians, accountants and mechanics. They operate heavy machinery, manage employees, build fence and monitor weather to know what boots to wear.

In this job of many boots, we may scout bean fields on a dewy summer morning or clean a livestock stall for the next cow to give birth. Hard-soled boots climb from the tractor to check seed depth behind the planter. We attend farm conferences in our best boots or spend a winter afternoon with the family in snow boots, sledding the slope southeast of the farmstead.

For some farms, plastic boot covers protect animals from devastating diseases that could transmit from boot treads. That's not the case for us but boot covers would help at times. Someone occasionally leaves a trail of mud in the farm office, despite the boot scraper outside the door.

Three boot dryers await their duties along the footwear wall where Dad and the guys store boots for every season and task, from chores to cheer – or sometimes, the unexpected. I wore rubber boots to my aunt's funeral a few years ago to keep my heels out of the mud. It was my nod to the career farm woman, who would have done the same.

Manifolds, Manolos, and Manure

By Bona Heinsohn, CAE | CCFB Director of Gov. Affairs and Public Relations

Bona Heinsohn As Chicago voters faced ballots longer than my favorite corgi is tall, Alderman Matt Martin (47th ward) dared to suggest that Chicago transition to an increasingly popular idea: ranked choice voting.

With ranked choice voting, voters rank candidates by preference. First choice. Second choice. Third pick. All the way down the race.

If a candidate wins over 50 percent of the first-preference votes, that candidate is declared a winner. If none of the candidates receive 50 percent an instant-runoff is held in which the candidate with the fewest first-choice votes is eliminated. First choice votes for the eliminated candidate go to their second-choice candidate. A new tally is done to see if any candidate has received over 50 percent. The process is repeated until a candidate receives over 50 percent. Yes, there are instances in which the voting and tallying is complete, and a candidate still does not have 50 percent of the vote.

Chicago aldermen and mayoral candidates currently face off in a non-partisan election. If a candidate does not receive 50 percent of the vote they go to a run-off (not an instant runoff). The existing system is expensive, not only for taxpayers but also for those candidates who essentially have to run two races.

Yes, if Chicago transitions to a ranked choice voting system there will be initial costs to modify voting systems. Ask Evanston about the costs, as Evanston voters will utilize ranked choice voting for municipal elections beginning in April of 2025.

Alaska, Hawaii, Maine, and Washington utilize ranked choice voting. San Francisco, Minneapolis, New York City, and Memphis either already use ranked choice voting or are transitioning to it.

Reform For Illinois has advocated for ranked choice voting across the state, saying that it's a more democratic way to elect local leaders. FairVote, an organization that advocates for election reforms, argues that when state and legislatures use a winner takes all approach they place parties and elections over voters. Those races tend to be more partisan. Polarized. And lower turnout.

In addition, proponents argue that ranked choice voting could expand the pool of candidates. Voters often weigh the decision of voting for their preferred candidate or the candidate they think will do the best in the race with ranked choice voting voters don't have to make that choice. With ranked choice voting, voters can rank their preferred candidate and the candidate they feel will do the best in the race.

Deseret News, based out of Salt Lake City, Utah, counters that there's no good way to handle races with multiple candidates. In fact, when there are more than two candidates involved "democracy gets fuzzy". Their word not mine. Critics take it another step further, saying that the system is complicated. Voters struggle to understand it. And that there's value in that final, expensive round of voting.

Looking at the 2014 Chicago mayoral election, Lori Lightfoot and Toni Preckwinkle received around 33 percent of the vote. Both advanced to the runoff. However, 60 percent of voters didn't vote for either Lightfoot or Preckwinkle. With a ranked choice election perhaps those voters' second or third choices would've been Lightfoot or Preckwinkle but we'll never know that. It's arguable that in the situation illustrated above democracy didn't prevail.

With the municipal election in the rear-view mirror, maybe it's time for Chicago to have a serious conversation about ranked choice voting. After all, the next nonpartisan election is just four years away.

LOCAL LEGISLATORS

Newly elected Representative Abdelnasser Rashid (pictured left) meets with Farm Bureau board member Jim Gutzmer during a late winter legislative reception. Representative Rashid resides in Bridgeview and has extensive experience in government as well as an undergraduate degree from Harvard University as well as a Masters in Business Administration in Finance and Economics from the University of Chicago Booth School of Business.

LEGISLATIVE ADVOCATES ELIGIBLE FOR YEAR END PRIZE

Every day, politicians and regulators in Washington, D.C., Springfield, or your local community make decisions that impact you and your family.

In today's world, your voice can be easily drowned out by other interest groups. We need you to speak out and advocate to protect your interests. That's where our grass-roots advocacy program, FB ACT, comes in to play. With the world at your fingertips, we make being an advocate for Cook County Farm Bureau®, the easiest thing you'll do all day.

As a thank you to active FB ACT members, we are giving away one Picnic Time® Gardner Seat and Tools. This lightweight and portable seat includes a sturdy steel frame along with five steel gardening tools including a garden fork, weeder, broad face trowel, hand rake, and narrow face trowel as well as a storage tote that detaches from the seat.

Timeframe: March 1- September 1, 2023

To be eligible, individuals must:

1. Be a member in good standing of Cook County Farm Bureau®.
2. Be a FBACT member. To join text 'FARM' to 52886.
3. Respond to at least one legislative action request. You will receive an entry for each action request you respond to.

The winner will be announced in the October Co-Operator!

If you have any questions please contact Bona Heinsohn at (708) 354-3276.

Farm Bureau Establishes National Priorities

Farm Bureau set the following national priorities for 2023:

- Pass a farm bill that meets the needs of all segments of the farm industry.
- Put trade back on the national economic agenda.
- Push for actions that reduce both agricultural production and transportation costs.
- Create conditions for stronger biofuel.
- Identify and develop new congressional champions for agriculture.

The priorities provided above center on ensuring farmers have access to new market opportunities and to federal programs that bolster the industry. Members with questions regarding these priorities or other Farm Bureau issues are encouraged to contact Bona Heinsohn at 708-354-3276.

We welcome New Voting Members!

The Cook County Farm Bureau Board of Directors welcomes the following Cook County Farm Bureau members who joined the organization or reclassified their membership recently to Regular* or Professional Status**:

NECTARINE

A nectarine (Prunus persica variety nectarina) is a fuzzless variety of peach.

Nectarines are more delicate than peaches, bruising very easily.

In appearance, nectarine trees are the same as peach trees, and are virtually indistinguishable from one another.

The word 'nectarine' means sweet as nectar, and this is very likely the obvious origin of the name.

Their yellow flesh has a noticeable pink tinge, with a distinct aroma and a more pronounced flavor.

NECTARINES ARE GENERALLY AVAILABLE FROM JUNE TO LATE SEPTEMBER

They are low in calories (and like most fruit - no sodium or cholesterol). They are a good source of vitamins A and C, beta-carotene and potassium.

Compared to peaches, nectarines are smaller and smooth skinned (looking more like plums), golden yellow with large blushes of red.

DIY Barn Quilt Painting Workshop

Learn about the history of barn quilts and paint your own design during this 2-hour make-and-take workshop. A barn quilt is a piece of wood, painted in simple geometric patterns to resemble a quilting block, that is hung on the exterior of a building. During this beginner-level class, you will paint a 12x12 barn quilt design on wood to hang indoors. Barn quilts make a creative, personalized gift for Mother's Day, Father's Day, anniversaries, birthdays, or to keep yourself.

DATE: Tuesday, May 2, 2023 TIME: 6:00 - 8:00 pm

LOCATION: Cook County Farm Bureau - 6438 Joliet Rd., Countryside

FEE: $20 for CCFB members, $25 for non-members (includes materials: board, stencil, paint, apron, etc.)
