Country Financial has had a long-standing history of working alongside the Cook County Farm Bureau to provide resources and support to our client base. Being involved in local farm bureau's gives agency owners the opportunity to connect with those in the agricultural realm. Because I want to learn the most I can about my clients and the best way to provide for them, I look forward to partnering alongside the Cook County Farm Bureau for the foreseeable future.

I believe the best way to help my clients is by truly understanding their lives, their work, and what matters most to them. Whether I'm helping a farming family, a couple looking at retirement, or a young family just getting started. I take time to listen and learn about their goals. The insurance coverage someone needs depends on them, their goals, their family, and their living situation. I always want to help my clients by taking the time to understand their unique situations and the risks they face – especially those in the farming community. Agriculture is full of uncertainty, and having the right protection in place can make a big difference for a family and their livelihood. I work closely with my clients to make sure they have coverage that fits their needs today while also helping them think about the future, including protecting their families, farms, and legacies for the next generation. My goal is to be someone my clients can rely on – not just when they need a policy, but whenever they need guidance or have questions along the way.

I love being able to give back to my community however I can, both personally and professionally. I am very involved with the Manhattan Patriots, which is our local football and cheerleading program. My son has played flag and tackle football for years, and my two daughters are both cheerleaders there. I am entering into my second year as a volunteer coach, and it has been so fulfilling to be on the field giving back to our local youth, instilling in them the balance or responsibility, discipline and foundational skills, while also exemplifying the love of the game! It also has given me a unique and positive opportunity to connect with more families right in our community.

I also support Breakthrough T1D, an organization the is deeply meaningful to my family. My son, Carson, was diagnosed with Type 1 Diabetes at age 3, and now at age 10, we are still learning so much and benefitting from the advocacy and fundraising that Breakthrough T1D does for families. My agency is happy to support their annual Breakthrough T1D walk as a “Brighter Future Sponsor”, where I am able to represent Beckett Insurance – Country Financial proudly not only as a business owner, but more importantly as a father. I’m immensely grateful for these opportunities to connect and contribute to the communities that I care about.
